

TWO POSITIONS AVAILABLE

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in Agribusiness or Agricultural Economics.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Strong theoretical and quantitative methods training with excellent oral and written communication skills are required.

JOB DESCRIPTION: One position is a 50% research and 50% teaching appointment; the other is 60% research and 40% teaching. Each faculty member will likely be expected to teach three classes per academic year along with advising graduate undergraduate students; one position will include some additional supervision of undergraduate student activities (NAMA, Quiz Bowl, etc.). He/she will also be expected to develop a nationally renowned scholarly program in agribusiness. The desired research/teaching areas include but are not limited to agricultural finance, agricultural management and marketing, food and fiber distribution systems, value-added agriculture, local food systems, agricultural labor issues, and agricultural market structure and performance. Major responsibilities will include: (1) developing a nationally recognized, industry-relevant research program partnering with extension to support an effective outreach component, (2) publishing research in major agricultural economics and agribusiness/business journals, (3) teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, (4) advising undergraduate and graduate students, (5) supporting the Masters of Agribusiness (MAB) program, and (6) securing sufficient grants and contracts to fund graduate students.

To be considered for Associate Professor rank, candidate must meet qualifications for associate professor as stated in the department's promotion/tenure guidelines at https://provost.uga.edu/_resources/documents/Agricultural_and_Applied_Economics_2015.pdf.

GENERAL INFORMATION: The Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics is home to 28 faculty members with 350 students in programs of study at the B.S., M.A.B, M.S., and Ph.D. levels. The Department offers excellent support and opportunities for professional growth and development. The position is located on The University of Georgia campus in Athens, a city of 67,000 within a metropolitan community of 150,000. Athens is located 65 miles northeast of Atlanta. Please check <http://www.uga.edu> for additional information about The University of Georgia and <http://www.caes.uga.edu/departments/agecon/> for the Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics.

Application Materials: (1) a letter of application including a description of academic qualifications and experience; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) evidence of teaching and service experience (if any); (4) graduate school transcripts; and (5) names and contact information for three professional references. Applications must be submitted online at <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/27751>. For questions, please contact Dr. Jeffrey Dorfman, Search Committee Chair, Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602. Email: jdorfman@uga.edu.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: To ensure full consideration for these positions, all application materials and supporting documentation should be received by October 1, 2018. The review of applications will continue until a suitable candidate is identified.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (facultyjobs@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.