The Rod Ziemer Lecture

Georgia Commissioner of Agriculture Tommy Irvin presented the Rod Ziemer Lecture at the Georgia Center for Continuing Education in Athens on April 12, 2005. Commissioner Irvin explained the mission and activities of the Georgia Department of Agriculture. The Department's mission is to protect and promote agriculture and consumer interests, and to ensure an abundance of safe food and fiber for Georgia, America, and the world by using state-of-the-art technology and a professional workforce. He also identified the Department's new initiatives in Georgia's agricultural products and examined the international marketplace.

The lecture honors an outstanding graduate from the Department of Agriculture and Applied Economics, Rod Ziemer, who tragically died in an automobile accident. Rod was a prolific author and a leader among graduate students. He was selected as the CAES Outstanding Graduate Student and also received the American Agricultural Economics Association's Outstanding Dissertation Award. The annual lecture not only brings honor to the memory of this remarkable graduate, but also inspires excellence in future generations of agricultural economics graduate students.

Outstanding Agricultural Economist Awards – Now Accepting Nominations

The Agricultural Economics Association of Georgia (AEAG) presents yearly awards to agricultural economists who have demonstrated outstanding achievement and leadership on a community, state, national, or international level. Candidacy is limited to agricultural economists operating in Georgia and/or graduates of a degree program offered by the Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics at the University of Georgia.

There are two awards which are based on the number of years of experience. The "J. W. Fanning Distinguished Young Professional Award" is presented to those with ten years or less of professional experience. The "J. W. Fanning Distinguished Professional Award" is presented to those with more than ten years of professional experience.

Nominations for the awards may come from anyone. AEAG members, faculty, alumni, students and agricultural economists in the state are encouraged to nominate qualified candidates for the awards. Also, agricultural economists should feel free to nominate themselves.

The nomination process is simple. Provide a brief description of the nominee's accomplishments, education, work experience, current position, past recognitions and awards, and contact information. Send nominations to the Agricultural Economics Association of Georgia, 301 Conner Hall, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602-7509. The deadline for award nominations is September 1, 2005. AEAG Board members will select award recipients. Both awards will be presented at the luncheon following the annual J. W. Fanning Lecture in November.
